

VMH board defends second hospital plan

LIVERMORE — The Valley Memorial Hospital Board of Directors, embroiled in controversy surrounding the proposed Pleasanton hospital, yesterday defended their decision to go ahead with the project.

The statement of policy released by the board said VMH's commitment to the Pleasanton facility is "based mainly on the needs of the current population of the western portion of (the VMH) service area."

"If VMH were to refuse to build a hospital (in the west end of the valley), another organization would surely build one," the statement said.

"The result would be a lack of coordination between two hospitals with different management, less effective delivery of medical care, serious financial injury to the present hospital, and reduction in services it could provide," the statement continued.

The board of directors denied allegations the present Livermore facility would be closed down or see its services limited by the new facility.

The statement declared it is VMH's intention to provide "a full spectrum of medical and surgical services, both inpatient and outpatient, at both facilities in the foreseeable future."

Some highly specialized services, the statement added, "may be available at only one of the hospitals."

The directors said an active "primary health care physician recruitment program" would be conducted to staff the facility.

The statement explained the principles on which VMH's master plan is based:

•That VMH is "responsible for serving every citizen in the Livermore - Pleasanton - Sunol - Dublin - San Ramon area." "No individual within the service area," the statement said, "is entitled to more or less health care than any other citizen." •That the area of greatest medical deficiency in the valley is primary health care, and the hospital is "totally committed to sponsor and promote additional primary health care resources throughout its service area."

•That valley citizens would be "best served" by a "single health facility organization" which would operate the health facilities to "give each citizen maximum quality care at the lowest price."

Only a single organization, the statement said, would operate economically enough to furnish the "ever-increasing sophisticated medical services" without duplication in another facility.

The directors' statement came on the heels of charges by the Livermore City Council that a new facility might indirectly encourage growth in the valley.

Council members also feared the addition of a Pleasanton facility might lead to the closing of important services now located in Livermore.

VMH directors met in executive session last week to draft the policy statement.

Board secretary Emily Schwarz said she hoped the statement would "give us a little breathing room."

"For one reason or another we have had a bad time communicating our position," said Schwarz. She hoped the statement would clarify the board's position.

Livermore council members Dale Turner and Helen Tirsell said last week communication between the council and VMH board could be improved by opening work sessions to council participation.

VMH already has acquired a 23-acre site in Pleasanton on which to build a 150-bed facility in the next five to seven years.

Fiery 680 crash kills woman, snarls traffic

By RUSS YARROW

ALAMO — A 19-year-old woman driver was trapped and died in a multiple-vehicle collision, explosion and fire on Highway 680 near Stone Valley Road Thursday afternoon. Two other drivers suffered injuries.

The dead woman was tentatively identified as Suzanne Eileen Hahn, 19, of 5327 Springdale Drive, Pleasanton, according to the Contra Costa County coroner's office. Dental records will be used to make positive identification.

A truck involved was carrying 6,000 gallons of methanol, a highly volatile, flammable alcoholic liquid. The collision required emergency equipment from the San Ramon Valley and Consolidated Fire Districts.

A portion of Highway 680 was closed to traffic for more than 4½ hours while crews cleared the wreckage from the highway.

Injured in the accident, according to the CHP, was George Chatterton, 45, of 505 Van Buren Place, San Ramon. He suffered extensive injuries and was in critical condition at Kaiser Hospital in Walnut Creek Thursday evening.

The driver of the tanker truck, Robert J. Schmid, 56, 3205 Northwood, Concord, escaped from his burning cab with minor injuries.

The driver of the pickup, Kent Howard Sliger, 19, of San Jose escaped serious injury.

Officers reports said the accident occurred around 1:30 p.m. when Chatterton's southbound car "for no apparent reason" crossed the median strip into the northbound lane, sideswiped a pickup truck and then collided head-on with the Volkswagen. The tanker, immediately behind the Volkswagen, rammed the Volkswagen and Chatterton's car.

The CHP said the Volkswagen ignited on impact and the rear tank of the truck cartwheeled in flames hundreds of feet down the freeway.

The CHP said the accident is still under investigation.

Tanker truck exploded on highway.

Board faces tough options

PLEASANTON — Repeating alternatives presented to the Amador school board the night before, Superintendent Bruce Newlin Wednesday night said Pleasanton Joint School District trustees face the option of cutting the 1976-77 budget by $154,130, lobby in Sacramento for more aid or placing a revenue limit increase measure on the June ballot.

Doug Rose, assistant superintendent for business operations, told the Pleasanton board the $6.4 million study budget is out of balance by the $154,130 figure and there are no reserves.

As a result, the Pleasanton trustees have scheduled a budget workshop for Wednesday, Jan. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the District Educational Center. The Amador board will put in a similar stint the night before, also at the center on Main Street.

According to Rose, principals were asked to compile their individual school needs and have them into the main office by last Oct. 15 — the earliest deadline for budget figuring in Rose's memory.

As with all school district budgets, 80 per cent or more of the total (study budget figure of $6,475,287) is earmarked for teacher and classified salaries and benefits.

Teachers' salaries are proposed to account for $3.59 million, classified salaries $882,777, and employee benefits $734,452. Under the latter, health and welfare benefits for teachers and instructional aides are proposed to go up $41,000 from the 1976-76 adjusted budget figure of $182,150.

The district is anticipating a loss in average daily attendance (ADA) of 94, from 5,436 at present to 5,343.25. Base revenue is estimated to increase by 6.16 per cent from $986.75 per ADA to $1,047.55 per ADA. The latter includes a state apportionment of $542.88 and $504.67 in local support.

The State Teachers' Retirement System apportionment has increased from 5.6 per cent to 6.4 per cent, as mandated by the Education Code. Rose noted that district contributions are moving toward a figure of 8 per cent, which must be accomplished in the next two years. The state contribution is $16.65 for regular K-8, Educationally Mentally Retarded, and home teaching and $10.96 for summer school ADA.

Rose also said cost of utilities has increased 12 per cent.

In other business, trustees indicated the present kindergarten admissions policy will remain in force. Children must be four years and nine months on or before Sept. 1 to be enrolled. Updating of the policy was necessary because of recent passage of permissive legislation on the subject.

Ken Lamb, city traffic engineer, presented a traffic safety report. He said the city is doing several crossing studies, including one for Vineyard Avenue in the vicinity of the new Pleasanton Greens housing development. Ninety families are expected to move into the units in the next few months.

A letter was received from Roger Manning of the Vintage Hills School citizens advisory committee, stating their was "serious overcrowding" at Vintage Hills School. Manning felt that another portable classroom was needed now. Newlin said he had spoken with Manning on the subject and advised him the housing needs for the entire district are being reviewed.

Trustees authorized filing an ESEA Title II application, purchase of standard school supplies, certifying (to the state Office of Local Assistance) the acquisition of a school site in the Del Prado area, requested a temporary loan from the county (until tax monies are received) and went on record as supporting AB 2009 (additional funding to the State Teachers' Retirement System).

The valley responds

A grave for Gutierrez

Luciano Gutierrez, the 20-year-old Mexican ranch hand who was killed in a Sunol accident a month ago, will be laid to rest today in St. Michael's Cemetery, Livermore.

The simple service, and a memorial Mass Jan. 24 at the church, will conclude the tragedy that began when the youth was killed on Main Street, Sunol, as he was trying to push a disabled pickup truck off the road. A van smashed into the truck, pushing it over Luciano and killing him.

His body lay in the Alameda County coroner's office awaiting cremation until a friend, Matilde Diaz of Pleasanton, intervened. She knew the youth had always been against cremation, and wanted to provide a Catholic burial for the body.

But Mrs. Diaz, a Komandorski Village resident with four children, couldn't afford the funeral expenses. And Luciano's family, whom he had left behind last spring in Sahuayo, Michuchan, had been depending on the money he sent to them. They couldn't hope to pay for a burial, although distraught at the idea that their son would be cremated.

A story on the sad plight appeared in The Times Wednesday morning. Before noon, St. Raymond's Church in Dublin had pledged a free funeral plot in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Hayward; and the Albert Brown Mortuary in Oakland had offered a free casket. Private donations had begun to come to the hastily set up "Luciano Gutierrez Fund" at Citizens Savings Bank, 300 Main St., Pleasanton.

At a noon meeting of the brand-new Latin-American Services Organization in Livermore, directors were promising to do what they could to help.

Yesterday brought even more help, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Flores, members of the Latin-American organization. They brought the problem to the attention of the pastor of St. Michael's Church in Livermore, who immediately responded by donating a plot in the church cemetery.

Since it was closer to home than Hayward, Mrs. Diaz gratefully accepted the new offer, combined with a promise by Livermore's Callaghan Mortuary to donate a casket. Graham-Hitch Mortuary had also offered help if needed.

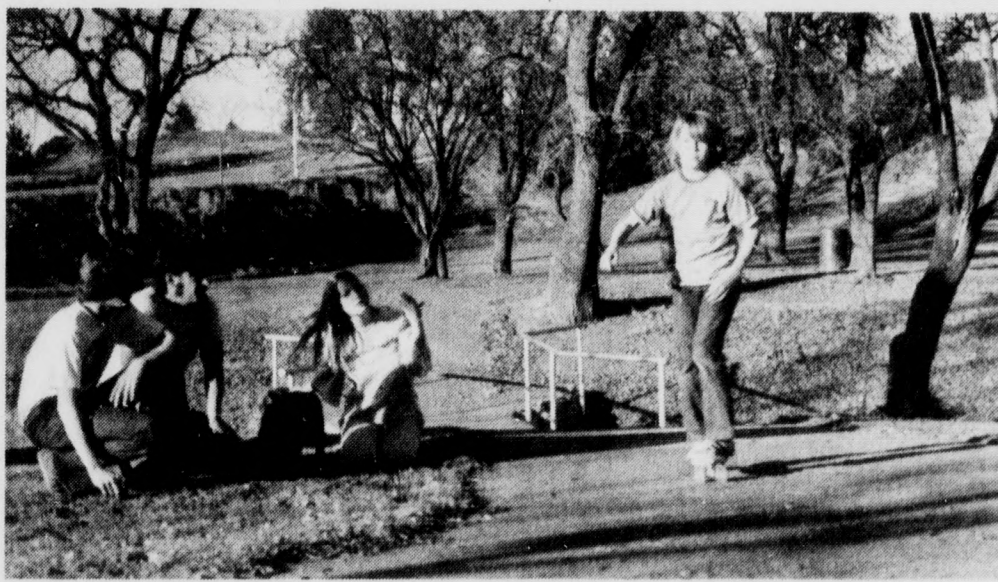

Luciano's body will lie in a grave marked only by a number because Mrs. Diaz has decided to send the $255.16 that has been donated to the fund directly to the desperately poor Gutierrez family in Mexico.

It would be an extravagance, she feels, to pay the money to ship the body all the way to Mexico for burial when the family, so dependent on the youth's income, are now in desperate need of the cash.

Matilde Diaz wrote the Gutierrez family a letter last night, telling them of the warm response of Valley residents to the tale of a youth who was in Sunol only eight months, living simply and working hard until his sudden death.

And along with grief at the loss of a friend — "such a gentle man" — comes the consolation of new friends and sympathetic help.

A very unseasonal day

Trees scoured of their leaves by winter winds are the lone clue to the continued unseasonal weather of December and January. So unseasonal, in fact, that Thursday's sunny and warm weather prompted many valleyites to the nearest park, in this case Kottinger Park in Pleasanton. A trio of teenagers here take a respite from tossing the football around to watch Mike Curtis go zipping by on his skateboard. Clear weather is expected to continue at least through today.

Times Photo

Trees blossom, sun smiles down — this is January?

Spring arrived yesterday — if you ignore the calendar on your wall — with fair, blue skies and a temperature that topped 65 degrees in parts of the valley.

But for ranchers, farmers, skiers, and home gardeners whose irises and almond trees have begun to sprout, there's the nagging problem of rainfall — or, better put, the lack of it.

For many it will come as no surprise to learn that November and December 1975 was the driest two-month period in Livermore for 100 years.

The November-December rainfall total was a low .29 inches, only slightly more than the 1876 low of .10 inches. But that dry spell was followed in January 1877 by 2.47 inches of rainfall.

The January 1976 rainfall - to-date total is not promising. So far Livermore has received only .30 inches, making the November - to-date rainfall total for Livermore only .59 inches, far behind the seasonal average.

The lowest total for these three months occurred in 1947-48 when the rainfall for that period was only 1.56 inches.

Record rainfall in Livermore during these three months was: November 1875, 7.23 inches; December 1871, 11.69 inches; January 1911, 12.6 inches.

Pleasanton's predicament is much the same, records showing the city received only .26 inches of rain last November and 33 inches in December.

So far in January only .20 inches of rain has fallen in Pleasanton for a November - to-date total of .79 inches.

For the full three months in 1974-75, the total rainfall in Pleasanton was 4.70 inches; for 1973-74 the total was 15.93 inches.

Back in November and December of 1956 the rainfall total for Pleasanton was only .53 inches, but a healthy 3.94 inches of rainfall in January 1957 helped ease the situation.

Prior to the current dry spell, the lowest rainfall accumulation for the three-month period occurred in 1947-48 when only 1.34 inches of rain fell.

The wettest November on record was in 1950 when 8.48 inches of rain was recorded.

In December 1955 Pleasanton was deluged with a record 14.84 inches of rain.

The January rainfall record was set in 1952 when 13.06 inches of rain fell.

Valley farmers and ranchers are worried that without significant rainfall there will be a shortage of feed for cattle in the spring, summer and fall.

Skiers and resort owners are worried, too, that the lack of rain will wash out the winter sports scene.

But, the weather shows no signs of cooperating with high clouds and warm temperatures forecast for today, there's no rain in sight.

Man admits to shooting kitten with bow and arrow
LIVERMORE — An 18-year-old Livermore man Tuesday admitted shooting a neighbor's ten-month-old deaf kitten with a bow and arrow, police reported.

Wanda Jean Williams of Ventura Avenue told police she let Frisky, her long-haired white kitten, out to play. She later found the cat near her front door with a broken arrow shaft thrust completely through its body. After taking the cat to the veterinarian, Mrs. Williams returned home to see a young neighbor girl pick up a piece of the broken arrow and take it inside her house, police said.

Police responded to a nearby house and questioned Rodney Lee Stribling of 918 Ventura Ave. He reportedly admitted shooting the white kitten at that time.

Frisky was rushed into emergency surgery late Tuesday. She was taken to the vet again Wednesday because of external bleeding. Mrs. Williams picked up Frisky from the vet about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and said the kitten is doing "pretty well."

Police didn't arrest Stribling but said a complaint against him would be issued by the District Attorney's office. Mrs. Williams said she would seek to recover $58 in medical bills from Stribling.

Nearly $6,000 in hand - guns taken from Broadmoor Ct home

LIVERMORE — Approximately $5,990 in handguns was taken from Buddy Forrest Cousatte's Broadmoor Court home recently, police said Wednesday.

Cousatte told police that he had stored six handguns in a candy box behind an air conditioning duct in his attic. He noticed the loss Tuesday but said they could have been stolen anytime since Oct. 30 of last year.

A ten-gauge pistol with "Navy Yard N.Y." inscribed on the frame valued at $5,000 was among the missing weapons. There are no leads in the case.

Armed robber gets $140 from Amador Liquors
PLEASANTON — A nervous thief in his 50's took $140 from Amador Liquors at gunpoint Tuesday night, police said Wednesday.

Clerk Larry McDonald told police the man came in and asked for cigarettes. He then said, "Put the money from the till in a paper sack." McDonald, startled, said, "You're kidding!" The suspect then pulled a six-inch blue steel automatic pistol from his waistband and replied, "No, I'm serious."

McDonald described the man as extremely nervous. At least three and possibly four witnesses believed they saw the man and gave descriptions similar to one McDonald had given earlier. He is said to be a white male in his 50's, approximately six feet tall, 190 pounds, gray hair, glasses, and discolored teeth.

Boat motor taken while victim drinks coffee
PLEASANTON — Unknown thieves removed a boat motor while the owner sipped coffee inside Denny's Restaurant on Johnson Industrial Road Wednesday.

James DeVinney of Hayward told police that burglars took a remote control electric motor and transducer valued at approximately $350 from the boat he was trailering while parked at Denny's. The thieves then replaced the boat's canvas cover and hauled the unit away.

There are no suspects in the case.

Carnegie name wins out

LIVERMORE — The Livermore Bicentennial Organization (LBO) has withdrawn its idea to change the name of Carnegie Park and its surrounding streets to Bicentennial Square.

The name change, suggested at an LBO general membership meeting in December, met with unanticipated opposition.

Particularly irked was Janet Newton, chairwoman of both the Livermore Heritage Guild and LBO Heritage '76 committee, because she had not been informed of LBO plans for the park.

Objections also were voiced by the Livermore Woman's Club whose ties to the park date back to 1911 the board of directors of the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District which went on record at its meeting Wednesday night as being opposed to the name change.

Notification that LBO had withdrawn its name change suggestion came from the organization's chairman, Gib Marguth, at the LARPD meeting.

Murray candidates night

A Candidates Night has been scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 20 at Nielsen School in Dublin for the six aspirants for the Murray School District board on the March 2 ballot. The program is sponsored by the Nielsen School PTA and starts at 7:30 p.m. Each of the six candidates will be asked to speak up to 10 minutes, followed by questions from the audience. Above, from left, are candidates Dr. Harry Overline, Linda Jeffery and Harrietta Dahlin. Also seeking the seat vacated by Joanne Bascom in November are Dawn Rutter, Eugene Hinton and Art Laursen.

It's legal

Palmist coming to town

PLEASANTON — A palmreader appears to be coming to town through a loophole in a city ordinance and the planning commission wants the loophole closed.

Planning Commission Chairman Walt Wood noted the city ordinance bans palmreading for "fees, salary or other compensation." Just because the proposed establishment will take donations instead of charging fees doesn't mean it is any less a business, said Wood.

City Attorney Ken Scheidig either should change his interpretation of the ordinance or have the city council write a more explicit one, said Wood.

Scheidig was out of town and unavailable for comment about Wood's sentiments, but another attorney told The Times he thought that even the current version of Pleasanton's ordinance is unconstitutional.

Marshall Krause, who handles palmistry cases for the American Civil Liberties Union, contended that palm readers are protected by the First Amendment right to free speech and communication.

"Most of the time in these cases, the city council backs down when challenged. Usually the city attorney advises them they are unconstitutional, as has happened in Fairfax and San Anselmo," said Krause.

It's true that cities can regulate businesses, but they cannot prohibit them unless they clearly are a threat to the general welfare, said Krause. There is no such threat involved where people sit down and talk, said Krause.

Livermore put a palm reader out of business by charging a $50 a day business fee for palm-reading. That's unconstitutional, too, said Krause. "The law is clear. You can charge a reasonable fee for the cost of appropriate regulation. But you can't assume they will violate the law and charge them police costs and such," said Krause.

Malpractice crisis

Reprieve for Valley

LIVERMORE — Despite predictions that the malpractice insurance crisis which has crippled hospital service in Southern California will spread north at the end of the month, Valley Memorial Hospital administrator Tom Andrews said hospital service in the valley would not be affected until spring when new insurance rates go into effect for valley doctors.

Dr. Sanford A. Marcus, president of the Union of American Physicians, said the malpractice insurance crisis would affect Northern California by Jan. 31 when malpractice protection for most of Northern California's 10,000 doctors runs out.

But Andrews said malpractice insurance for 96 per cent of the valley doctors will not run out until June or July.

"I have no indication that the valley will be affected by the current slowdown," Andrews said.

He predicted that malpractice rates for valley doctors would rise "substantially" in the spring.

"If something isn't resolved prior to the May, we're going to have a big problem like we did last year," said Andrews, referring to the "out" May protest over increased malpractice premiums.

Andrews said he did not know of a solution to the crisis, but warned neither physicians nor patients can afford to pay for increased insurance rates.

Andrews said an obstetrician in the valley might expect to be billed $42,000 for 1976, almost triple the $16,000 paid by the physician in 1975.

Dr. Marcus said physicians who cannot afford the increased premiums will be forced to curtail their service or abandon practice completely.

The Southern California hospital slowdown continues in its thirteenth day.

The number of hospital workers laid off or on reduced salaries climbed to 26,000 Monday at the 97 affected hospitals.

Officials said yesterday no end to the crisis is in sight, and the slowdown is spreading to the valley east of Los Angeles.

Meet called to hit drugs

Could the Valley stand a better drug-abuse prevention program?

If your answer is YES — come to a meeting Monday night and sound off.

Maybe someone you know should be in a halfway house for drug abusers, instead of trying to make it on his own. But there's no such thing as a halfway house in the Valley.

Maybe you know of some teenagers who are risking permanent damage with PCP, the animal tranquilizer being added to marijuana cigarettes. But the kids don't understand the dangers.

Maybe there's someone who could use counseling or even detoxification from an addictive drug.

Bring your ideas to Jim Knowles, a Lawrence Livermore Lab engineer and for the past three years an active member of the "Hotline" counseling services based in Pleasanton.

Knowles has just been appointed to a new county committee and he needs local feedback so he can represent the Valley.

He is serving on the fledgling 1976-77 Drug Abuse Planning Committee, which is being formed to review Alameda County's present drug abuse services and suggest new approaches to an old problem.

"Currently," says Knowles, "about the only thing Alameda County offers in the Valley is counseling through Hotline, county funding."

Hotline offers a prevention program featuring speakers who tell school students about the dangers of drug abuse. Students can also partake of a variety of programs designed for youth who have gotten into trouble through drugs or who want to avoid possible problems. Help is also offered to their families.

Knowles has already invited to the Monday meeting knowledgeable representatives of such groups as Connection, Federal Youth Center, Horizons (Livermore's youth program funded by the police department), Valley Community Services District, police departments and judges.

He is hoping anyone with a knowledge of the Valley's drug abuse woes will come or at least send him a written statement describing a specific problem and offering suggestions for a solution.

The meeting is 7:30 p.m. at the county mental health center, on Hopyard Road, Pleasanton.

"We'd like statistical information wherever possible," Knowles says. "We need documents — even newspaper clippings — and suggestions about what kinds of services should be provided."

Knowles will be bringing the ideas and impressions he collects to a county-wide meeting of the 11-member committee.

The changes they make in the county's drug abuse program will go to the state by March 15 and will be put into operation in the new fiscal year beginning July 1.

City detours Foothill bikes

PLEASANTON — The $19,000 in the city treasury earmarked for bicycle trails won't go for bike trails along Foothill Road, City Manager Bill Edgar told the council Monday.

Councilman Roger McLain brought up the Foothill Road bike safety problem late in the council meeting.

"I'm hearing a lot of people concerned about Foothill Road traffic," said McLain. "There is no place for cyclists to go safely there. The road is narrow and there is a soft shoulder."

Edgar responded that the city is behind in implementing the funds which the city council authorized for bike trails. On Foothill Road many improvements, including widening of the roadway, must be done before "an effective bike trail" can be installed, said Edgar. He acknowledged that the road "is a dangerous one for bicycles."

Councilman William Herlihy thought that completion of the Las Positas Boulevard overpass would offer at least a partial solution to the bike safety problem on Foothill. Many youths attending Foothill High School live east of Interstate 680 and installation of the overpass would give them a direct link to the high school, eliminating their need to make long trips along Foothill Road to get to school.

Park and recreation commissioners have shown impatience with the staff's apparent inaction on bike paths. Commissioner Ken Mercer brought up the topic last month after park and recreation commissioner Jerry Wifley's 17-year-old son was involved in an auto-bicycle accident on Santa Rita Road. Mercer was told at that time that the staff held bike trails as a high priority item, along with everything else.

Children's Home Society

If you're a woman who likes to feel that even her fun activities have a purpose, membership in a Children's Home Society auxiliary may be just your thing.

The Golden Acorn Chapter of CHS invites local women to - attend an orientation luncheon Tuesday, Jan. 20 at the Pleasanton home of Kay Wayt, 5525 Corte Del Cajon. The luncheon begins at 11 a.m. and guest speaker will be Mrs. Ruth Kulis, Golden Gate assistant director of auxiliaries.

Children's Home Society, although best known as an adoptive agency, also offers a variety of counseling services. These include pregnancy counseling to women concerned about planning for an unborn child, and also help for parents, married or single, who face a crisis with their child.

More than one-third of the money needed to perform these services is raised by volunteers through auxiliary activities.

CHS also gives temporary foster home care to children awaiting permanent adoptive placement. Complete adoption services are an important part of the agency's program.

Golden Acorn Chapter includes women from Pleasanton and offers three categories of membership: active, associate and angel. Active members attend regular meetings and assist in all fund-raisers. Associate membership provides a way of giving financial support for those with less time to give. Angels are granted lifetime memberships for a contribution of $150 to CHS.

For more information about membership or the luncheon, contact Mrs. Wayt at 462-4693.

On sports

Tinseltown's faint glitter

Mike Zampa

You're comfortably into middle age, nestled in a warm home in a quiet suburb, three daughters growing and active, the community mercifully forgetful that once you were the most feared player the Oakland Raiders had.

So what do you want now that fame and agony and hard work are all in the past?

"I'd like to be a cowboy," says Ben Davidson. "You know, wear one of those 10-gallon hats and look seven-feet tall in the saddle?"

Sure Ben, but why not be Pope?

After all, it wouldn't look any sillier than a cowpoke who, even without the top, towers over his horse.

BEN DAVIDSON

That's the dilemma Ben faces in his relaxed career as a bit movie actor. When you're as tall as an NBA center, massive as a heavy-weight wrestler and wrapped in whiskers, you're not in demand like, Paul Newman, or even Flipper for that matter.

Which is okay with Davidson, who can't view acting as more than a diversion anyway.

"Football was very exciting," Ben says; "But movies are very dull. There's a lot of sitting around and waiting and if you like to play cards, that's fine. Otherwise it's pretty dreary."

Since leaving the Oakland Raiders Ben has been immortalized in celluloid epics like MASH and Behind the Green Door. He's played a bouncer and a football player (what imagination his casting directors had) but never appeared on screen for more than a flash.

Typecasting doesn't fluster Ben, who has no yearning for Hamlet or John-Boy or any other dramatically charged role. Following in the hoofs of the Lone Ranger and Hopalong Cassidy wouldn't be bad though, he says. "I'd like to wear that gun on my hip."

Acting is a sideline during retirement for Davidson. He has a New York agent who arranges an occasional television spot or commercial part once in a while a movie producer will call.

Sometime this year Ben will appear in "Harry and Walter Go to New York," a comedy-musical starring Diane Keaton, Michael Caine, Elliot Gould and James Caan. Ben will appear in a 30-second cameo as, you guessed it, a bouncer at a posh downtown restaurant.

His term of employment was so brief that Ben never learned the plot of the feature. Two of the male leads are safecrackers, he thinks.

A harsh critic of network television (he hasn't turned the set on in a month-and-a-half, mostly because it's broken) Davidson recently scoffed at a part in ABC's "The Rookies."

He missed his first important role in a recent movie release, "Farewell My Lovely," starring Robert Mitchum. The movie called for a large, slightly mangled man who plays without a full deck in the brains department. Sort of like Anthony Quinn in "Requiem for a Heavyweight."

Ben wanted the part. Ironically, however, the producer thought Davidson too slight of build for the role as he envisioned it. Ben had just returned from an extended motorcycle trip. The roll went to Tom O'Halloran, an ex-pug from Boston.

Davidson saw the picture after its release, and discovered that O'Halloran was the second-lead in the picture. It could have been the biggest break for old number 83 since he mangled Joe Namath's jaw back in the late 1960's.

But he has no regrets. Davidson is kept comfortable by occasional film efforts. He's left with plenty of time to follow three daughters who are nearing international class as swimmers.

Sometime this year Ben and former teammate Tom Keating will embark on a 15,000 motorcycle tour across America as a promotion for Kawasaki. They'll ride for four months, always on the lookout for a news cameraman who might snap the manufacturer's logo on the gas tank of the bike.

Upon returning, there may be another T.V. spot on the cooker.

Ben's latest is a brief appearance in a Lite Beer commercial for Miller Brewing Co. He's pictured on screen with Rosie Grier and Ray Nitschke, all three engaged in delicate needle point. For three weeks in 1961 Davidson and Greer were teammates with the New York Giants.

Ben was shuffled off to Green Bay for the rest of the season where he played with Nitschke. The three were considered monopolists when it came to nastiness on the football field.

As deadpan knitters they aren't bad either. The three produce a fragmented embroidery that reads: "Lite Beer from Miller. Everything You wanted from a Beer. And less."

It took four hours and 40 takes to get down the 60

Back in the saddle again — that's where Amador Valley High is after three rounds of EBAL basketball.

Two two-time defending champions are back in first place with a 3-0 record in a season some people had written off to reconstruction.

Well the only thing being reconstructed is the attitude of those who felt Amador would chase Granada, and maybe Livermore, from a distance.

The Dons are a game up on three challengers to their title, and are confronted with an opportunity to make great strides tonight. Amador will play Granada in Livermore at 8 p.m. to highlight a full schedule of EBAL games.

The Matadors are staggering at 2-1 after a crushing defeat at Livermore Tuesday.

The Cowboys, also at 2-1, will face Dublin on the road.

The other 2-1 team in the league, San Ramon, seeks its third straight victory against Foothill. Monte Vista plays at California.

After this evening's play, the EBAL could be faced with a four-way logjam at the top of the standings. If Granada can regroup and gain the full services of injured Lee Brennan and Joe Wujek to defeat Amador, both teams will be 3-1. Victories by San Ramon and Livermore would make it a four-way tie.

The Dons have a chance to prevent all that. They bounced back from a first-half beating Tuesday to derail Monte Vista, 54-47. As usual, guard Mike Hill led the recovery with 13 points. But junior Sam Jorgensen came to life with 12 points in the defensive struggle.

The question tonight is whether or not Amador, traditionally a man-to-man defensive team, can stop Granada which floundered Tuesday against Livermore's zone.

NorCal swimmers compete for North

Bill Radley is miffed at the 1972 Mercury Cougar some thief drove into California High School's swimming pool last weekend.

Seems the car is overshadowing his NorCal Aquatics swim team.

"We can't get anybody to cover it when our kids break national records," Radley complained; "But when some joy-riding publicity seeker drives a car into the pool, the press gets there before the police."

Well that may change after this weekend.

The north is swimming against the south in the sixth AAU Pacific Association All-Star Meet at San Francisco State, and four NorCal competitors are on the squad. In fact Radley's girls could hold the key to a sixth straight victory for the north team.

Three of the girls are from Pleasanton, in fact, from one Pleasanton household. They are sisters Dana, Vicki and Jan Davidson. The fourth is Pat Price of Castro Valley.

Dana, who is being groomed as a future Olympian, will swim three races for the North. The others will each compete once.

Victories for all four wouldn't surprise Radley. On the other hand, a defeat for Dana might precipitate cardiac arrest.

"I expect Dana to win both of her individual events," Radley said yesterday; "and to establish new national age group records. 'That might be putting her on the spot,' he admitted; 'but if she has competition, it will cause a record."

"It's totally up to her," the coach said. "She tells me when she wants to go for a record and when she's not up to it."

Usually Dana feels equal to the task. She still possesses six national standards for age group swimmers. Untold others are waiting in her watery path.

One record, for the 100-yard individual medley, was relinquished to sister Vicki recently. It's getting so that if you're the best swimmer in the Davidson home, you're probably the best in the United States.

There are about 60 swimmers from Southern California, however, who'll endeavor to tip the balance away from the North in general, and Pleasanton specifically.

Heading up the south team will be Olympic champion Shirley Babashoff.

Foreman solid favorite

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former heavy-weight champion George Foreman fully expects to whip Ron Lyle Jan. 24 in their nationally televised fight and then he doesn't care who he boxes as long as the road ultimately reaches Muhammad Ali.

Fifteen months ago, Ali upset Foreman in Africa via an 8th round knockout and won back the title along with the big money it includes.

"I lost that fight," the 26-year-old Foreman now admits. "The only way to win the title back is by getting into the ring and winning."

Beset by manifold problems, including those of money, Foreman hasn't fought a regulation bout since losing to Ali Zaire, although he has appeared in three exhibitions.

This time, for a $250,000 purse, he'll go against Lyle in the confines of the 4,000-seat Sports Pavilion at Caesars Palace with a national television audience looking on via ABC.

Lyle, 33, who like Foreman was kayoed by Ali, gets $175,000 for his efforts to remain in the elite of the heavy-weights.

The starting time is slated for 2 p.m. PST with Foreman the 7-5 favorite off his harder punching.

Since losing to Ali, Foreman has revamped his board of strategy with the veteran Gil Clancy directing his ring activities.

Clancy has instructed Foreman to shorten his punches and not go for the wide open attack that was successful until he fought Ali.

The former Olympic champion from Houston, Tex., who now lives in Livermore, Calif., takes a 41-1 record into the hotel-casino ring against ex-convict Lyle who is 31-3-1.

They'll battle 12 rounds or less and the fight isn't expected to go the distance.

Just a week ago in Las Vegas, Ken Norton stopped Pedro Lovell in five rounds and now wants to fight Ali with whom he divided two bouts before Muhammad beat Foreman.

"I'd like to fight Ali first, but if it's decided there should be a further elimination bout against Norton, I'll do that," said Foreman. He knocked out Norton in two rounds in a heavy-weight title bout at Caracas, Venezuela.

The ex-champ has been weighing about 216 as he prepares for Lyle and both expect to come in at about the same weight in Las Vegas.

In the rankings, Foreman currently is No. 2 challenger and Lyle, who was stopped by Ali in the 11th round at Las Vegas, is No. 5.

Lyle claims his championship fight should not have been stopped, but he gets little support in the contention. He was leading on points when the champion tagged him with a staggering right hand from which the challenger couldn't recover although he didn't go down.

Spitfires win soccer title

The San Ramon Spitfires stunned the previously undefeated Alamo Roughriders, 4-1, to capture the Al Caffodio under-12 soccer championship.

Gary Golish scored a pair of second half goals to insure the triumph. Spitfire goalkeeper Phil Hampton turned back 10 Alamo shots to preserve the lead.

Ron Wahlig and Paul Warren played outstanding soccer on the front line. Roger Bantley and Todd Clarke were the defensive kingpins.

Tim Woberg gave San Ramon a 1-0 halftime lead when he scored at 12:25 on Golish's assist.

In the second half, Golish made it 2-0 with a Kirk Allen feed. Todd Mitchell jumped the Spitfires ahead 3-0 with an unassisted score, then Golish finished the scoring with a goal assisted by Warren.

second spot, Davidson says. The problem was Rosie Grier, a more seasoned T.V. performer than his partners. "I just don't feel this part, it's not me," Rosie told his producers. Before the spot was printed, Grier had completely rewritten his dialogue.

"I thought he was kidding at first," Davidson says; "but he kept changing the words. He was pretty temperamental."

Ben was pleased just to sample his employer's product. "The prop man had to keep bringing me fresh props," Ben said. "They got worried that I wasn't going to be able to function because I had four or five during the filming."

Ben brought home the empties to improve on a collection of 700 beer bottles and cans from around the world.

Does he still drink Lite Beer? "Sure," Ben says. "It's everything you want in a beer and..."

Darn mercenary cowboys.

Granada clubs MV

In a match over before it started Granada High just had to put wrestlers on the mat to beat Monte Vista High, 48-13 last night at the winners' gym.

Monte Vista, losing a group of grapplers to injuries and apathy, could only send six wrestlers to the mats. Granada, 42 points in front before the first match, just went through the motions in upping their league record to 2-0.

"The kids just couldn't get up for this one," explained Granada wrestling coach Steve Page. "When you've won before you start it's hard to get your mind on the match. But we're going to be up for next week."

Next week meaning Amador who the Mats must face in Pleasanton. The Dons will be Granada's toughest match and the outcome will go a long way towards deciding the EBAL championship.

Carnegie and other scoundrels

Just when we thought this Valley's salute to our nation's 200th birthday was going to slip by with barely a murmur, along comes that Livermore flap over the Carnegie Park, and in Pleasanton they're jousting over a "Bicentennial Parade," and in Dublin it's the preservation of yet another old building.

We might have known folks around here wouldn't let our Bicentennial get away without a fight. It's enough to remind a body of the Spirit of '76, the Battle of What's-its-Name, and all those other glorious tales of yore.

At the risk of offending Pleasantonites, Dublinites and San Ramonians, we find that Livermoreans clearly have the edge right now with that delightful thing over the good name of "Carnegie."

You will recall that the Livermore Bicentennial Organization has been searching for "some way to identify our 1976 community effort for future generations." That seems little enough to ask.

"But not by renaming our Carnegie Library, you don't," is the response of those who are shocked at any suggestion of entitling that block of Livermore history "Bicentennial Square," or whatever.

We don't know how this might register with the Messrs. Jefferson or Franklin, but we can bet that Andy Carnegie is really having a good chuckle, if they permit chuckling down there where Carnegie and the other captains of our early industrial advances now reside.

For the hard truth is that the "philanthropists" whose names we now revere with libraries and scholarships and great cultural centers, are the same scoundrels who worked children ten hours a day in their factories, who beat down the American laborer with troops, and who built their own success on the suffering of helpless millions.

And just before, or after, they were called to their creator, these "giants of American industry" got religion, so to speak. They tired of making millions — all tax free — and found a new game in spreading that wealth across the land, while also guaranteeing for themselves a permanent place in American mythology.

Forget Andrew Carnegie? Never! We should build monuments to his memory — along with Rockefeller and Mergenthaler and all those other crooks so that our children might know of the price America paid for its 20th Century luxury.

Perhaps the Livermore Bicentennial Organization could provide a plaque telling that side of our heritage, on the park which today honors the memory of Andrew Carnegie.

Don't forget the musicians

Letters to the Times

Citizens radio

Editor, The Times:
In response to Jill Goularte's letter (Times, Jan. 11) complaining about Citizen Band interference.

I would like to point out to Miss Goularte that over 95% of the CB interference problem lies not with the CB equipment but with defective or substandard tuning mechanisms found in many television and radio receivers. These receivers inadvertently pick up harmonic frequencies as well as the main frequency that they were designed for. Similar problems can also be accounted for by line interference caused by the operation of electrical equipment of appliances being operated in the neighborhood. Such devices include mixers, osterizers, hand-held saws and even inexpensive fish aquarium heaters.

Transmitters are rigidly inspected by manufacturers to comply with FCC regulations; however, there are no such standards for television sets, radios and stereos. I think Miss Goularte, as well as many members of the general public, would do well in the future to examine all of the facts before making rash condemnations. Citizen's Band Radio is a valuable tool as well as a fascinating and interesting hobby. I would hate to see it destroyed because of some manufacturer's shoddy merchandise.

Heritage posters

Editor, The Times:

I wish to thank the Pleasanton students who participated in the Heritage Spirit Of '76 Poster Design Contest. Their response toward a Bicentennial festival youth project was greatly appreciated and well received by many in the community. Those who viewed the poster exhibit at the Pleasanton School District Educational Center were impressed by the student's refreshing and original, creative posters depicting Pleasanton's heritage, both past and present. It is most gratifying to have worked with the students and wish to express our thanks for their taking an active part and contributing their talent toward Pleasanton's Bicentennial celebration and our Nation's 200th birthday.

Chairman of the Heritage Spirit Of '76 Poster Contest, Bicentennial Festival Committee member.

Beauty and bridge

Editor, The Times:

How great to learn of some young people who are interested in adding beauty and enjoyment to a fragment of our world as are the artists currently in the process of painting the bridge side panels in the vicinity of Del Valle Hospital.

A similar situation exists in connection with the Sausalito tunnel, where a few years ago a state engineer had the audacity to paint a rainbow around the tunnel entrance. I dare say it has been a lift to the spirits of most who pass through that tunnel.

Efforts of former "artists" in painting the Del Valle Bridge have resulted only in obscenities and ego trips with initials. It is refreshing to see them replaced by some beauty and patriotism.

I do hope the county will weigh the issue carefully and rule in favor of beauty where formerly their was ugliness.

Gravel logic

Editor, The Times:

Your Sunday article about the gravel trucks on First Street appears to be a good example of arranging "facts" to support any desired conclusion. It doesn't take a "staff study" to determine that our neighborhood is a quieter and cleaner place on Sundays and nights when the trucks don't roll.

It could well be that the loss of tax revenue would be greater than previously thought, and therefore our leaders want to soften their stand with the gravel companies.

But it would be nice if the issue could be dealt with on a more candid level. I'd rather hear the politician say "The trucks stay because we need the money," not "Well, they're not any worse than cars anyway." That is nonsense and an insult to the citizenry.

More workers

Editor, The Times:

In my recent letter to you regarding the Pleasanton Bicentennial Ball, I erroneously omitted some peoples names who gave of their time and efforts beyond the call of duty.

DeWitt and Lilly Ault did a wonderful job on the picture buttons and contributed their profit to the Bicentennial Commission.

Lee Ann McFadden worked many countless hours on the tickets, programs and decorations and Teri Jordan and Bev Hamlin put in much of their time as well.

On behalf of the Pleasanton Bicentennial Commission we thank them, and I apologize for omitting their names in my first letter to you.

Round the town

Here it is. The inside dope on how San Francisco's moguls intend to keep baseball's moguls from depriving the working class of their beloved Giants.

Forget all that other stuff you've been reading. This info comes direct. I got it from one of our classified ad girls, who learned it from her sister's ex, who currently has a hot thing going with a blonde who is a member of Mayor Moscone's minority secretarial pool.

Ms. Blonde happened to have her tape recorder turned on while the mayor and several of his aides were going over the baseball matter with one Horace Stoneham, chief stockholder of SF Giants Inc.

The first voice we hear is that of the mayor. "If you think I'm going to be known across the country as the mayor who lost a major league baseball franchise in his first month in office, then you're crazier than Barba-what's-his-name."

"I know how you must feel about this," that would be Stoneham's voice answering the mayor. "But you must realize how terrible it's been for me all these years at Candlestick Park. I haven't been warm since May of 1960. It's enough to drive a baseball mogul to drink."

"So what gives you the idea that it will be any warmer in Toronto," Moscone thunders right back. "They have winters that run to ten months of the year, I am reliably informed by a Chronicle sports reporter."

"But that's why they've promised to build an indoor baseball park, fully heated, and designed to hold 180,000 fans. There's almost no chance of the Giants having to turn fans away with that kind of capacity."

"What fans?" Moscone screams. "You could have played your last five seasons in Civic Auditorium, and still had room left over for a basketball game ... if San Francisco had a basketball team, that is."

"That's a good point, boss," a bright young city hall subordinate chimes in. "My 13-year-old kid wanted me to ask you how come we ever left Seals Stadium? He was reading where the Giants drew a million and a half fans in Seals Stadium, great weather, and within reach of the city streetcar system. My boy wants to know why we let that guy Charlie Harney build a baseball park at Candlestick, where any idiot knows the chill factor never gets above 42."

"You tell your 13-year-old boy to mind his own business," the mayor responds. "That's the trouble with this city. Every damned eighth grader thinks he could do a better job of running San Francisco than us moguls."

"I have the same problem with my nephew," Horace Stoneham says, sympathetically. "He thinks I should have stayed in New York. Can you imagine anybody wanting to deprive me of these 18 glorious years on the west coast?"

"That's why I cannot understand why you would even consider leaving our beautiful city for a place like Toronto," Moscone says. "Other than an exclusive market of five million people, an enclosed stadium seating 180,000, free rent for 25 years and an Eskimo valet for every player, what do they really have to offer you that you couldn't get right here on the west side of the Bay, between Redwood City and Fisherman's Wharf?"

"Well," Stoneham replied, cautiously, "I must admit I was always hurt by that fifty cent sur tax you slapped on every one of my fans, to pay for a stadium expansion that I needed like I needed another cold. I would have thought ..."

"Now let's not get sentimental," Moscone interrupted. "Baseball is a business, and you and I both know it, Mr. Stoneham. As long as you can make a profit, you should pay the full freight."

"Well that's just it," Stoneham says. "I haven't really made a dime since our last season in Seals Stadium. I was thinking about some sort of city subsidy to help keep your beloved Giants right here in good old San Francisco."

"Don't be ridiculous," Moscone replies, acidly. "You gonna tell him about the three billion dollar law suit now, boss," asks the legal counsel for the Civil Liberties Defense Fund, AFL-CIO.

"Yes, I almost forgot about that. We made a careful study, Mr. Stoneham. And we added up all the potential vacant hotel rooms, the drinks we won't sell at Lefty O'Doul's Bar, the muni buses that won't run, not to mention the sports writers that would be laid off and the overtime police and firemen won't get to work ... and the whole thing comes to three billion dollars. If you insist on pulling the Giants out of Candlestick, then that is what it is going to cost you, Horace Stoneham, three billion dollars!"

"And does that mean I would get to watch all future Giants' games from an enclosed, heated stadium in Toronto, with five million people screaming to attend every game?" Stoneham asks, reaching for his pen.

"Well, I suppose so, but you don't mean you'd pay three billion dollars just to ..."

"Who do I make the check out to?" Stoneham asks. "I haven't been offered a deal like this since I sold the Polo Grounds to the Chase Manhattan Bank."

Hindsight/Foresight

Classified equity

School classified employees, often "forgotten or overlooked," may at last be getting some equity.

Though previous legislation out of Sacramento was designed to place school classified employees and state employees on equal footing under the Public Employees Retirement System, school employees have rapidly been losing retirement ground — or so Assemblyman Carmen Perino believes.

In order to "legislate equity" for the classified school work force — which now totals 180,000 throughout the state — Perino introduced AB 1876. The bill provides benefit parity for clerical, custodial, food service, maintenance, transportation and other support personnel, and proposes a funding mechanism, and establishes a separate category of membership in PERS for "school members."

The 180,000 members, incidentally, form the single biggest category of membership in PERS, according to Perino.

His bill would create a special "school member" category within the Public Employees Retirement System. The change would separate all assets of school members from the funds relating to state, county and municipal employees.

This separation would protect school employee assets from being used to fund benefits for other groups. All PERS funds would continue to be pooled for investment purposes, but the appropriate share of returns would be credited to each category.

PERS would notify the state controller of the total dollar amount required for school employer contributions. The controller would convert the dollar amount into a tax rate based on the total assessed evaluation of ALL property in the state — except San Francisco, where school employees are not PERS members.

The controller would then notify each county of the tax rate it must impose for school employer contributions. The tax rate would be the same in every county.

Passage and implementing of the bill would allow for a more equitable retirement package for classified employees, along with an end to the employee retirement funding problems now experienced by school districts statewide.

These are extremely busy and crucial days for valley school districts.

For the Murray district, a bond election and trustee vote are barely six weeks hence.

Amador and Pleasanton, along with Murray, also have budget study sessions planned within the next two weeks. The former two may be headed for revenue limit increase measures on the June ballot.

San Ramon continues to grow — at almost 400 students a year — and faces the problems inherent in trying to adequately house all newcomers.

And the number of "regular" and "special" school district meetings reflect this overall vitality.

The education "beat" this past week included three regular board meetings and the initial gathering of Assemblyman Floyd Mori's education advisory committee.

Next week's agenda is just as busy.

Three school district budget work sessions are slated the following week.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

There is a laddie in San Ramon who wears one brown shoe and one black shoe on days when he is afraid he might have a mental breakdown.

Don't ask me why he fears a mental breakdown.

His reasoning is that if the day comes when he does not know his shoes are mismatched he will know he has crossed the border into that never-never land of schizoids and manic depressives.

Of course there is a flaw in his plan.

The fellow never advanced his reasoning to the point where he realized that if the day comes when he does not know his shoes are mismatched he will not know he does not know so he will never know for sure whether or not he has entered a world of delirium and psychosis.

All of which is probably not important. If a fellow doesn't know he is ready for the funny farm he is not likely to worry much.

Anyway his reasoning is not much worse than that of some of the lads and lassies who tell me there is no unemployment and less crime in big Communist states like Soviet Russia and China.

They say this while turning pale with horror at the idea of making folks in this country labor for their welfare checks.

Communism will probably never come to this country because the folks on welfare just wouldn't let it happen.

There is doubtless less crime and unemployment in Russia and China than in these United States.

Folks in those countries either work or are in considerable hot water. I don't know whether or not it's a case of no work, no food, but there is some stimulus which gets folks off their backsides and onto the production line.

That is not the case in these United States. Some folks on welfare would face such a great economic loss if they went to work they just can't afford to get off their duff and find steady employment.

All of which was brought to mind by the latest report of Herbert E. Walsh, agent in charge of the Pleasanton - based United States Border Patrol which rounded up some 4,000 plus illegal aliens in 49 California counties during December.

Most of them were employed, Walsh reports, some in jobs paying up to seven bucks an hour. Fifteen were receiving welfare or other government assistance.

The young lady who turned his report into a story for the back pages informed me the report was misleading.

"Some of them were making seven dollars an hour, but very few," she said.

"Whatever the case, they were holding down jobs which could provide employment for legiti-mate citizens of this country," I said.

"Not so," was her reply. "The jobs they hold may be good according to Mexico standards but no citizen of this country would take them. Most would lose money if they went off welfare and took stoop labor jobs." Which gets me to my point.

I maintain that anyone who can work and is on welfare should work if a job is available.

Make the rules simple. No one starves if they're willing to give a little to get a little. If a job is available and a person is unwilling to take it either he works or knocks over garbage cans for his food.

Such an arrangement would ease this nation's overwhelming welfare burden and get people out of the habit of sitting on their Post Toasties and demanding either "suitable employment" or a welfare check.

Bums were bums in the days of yore, not "welfare recipients." Euphemisms are a continuing pain in my backside and none more so than the term "suitable employment."

Suitable employment for me is that of a newspaper editor or reporter. But I have worked as a fruit picker, pie boy, pushed a hand truck, fed a pear grader, third helper in a steel mill, machinist's helper and a machinist, clerk in a Post Exchange, a field timekeeper, an installment collector, ice delivery man, ice puller, in an ice warehouse and as a guide at the Winchester Mystery House.

Suitable employment hell. A job is a job when a man is hungry ... and what's good enough for me is good enough for a laddie collecting a welfare check. Let him work for his daily bread.

Like folks do in those Utopias of demented idealists, Russia and China.

The Jacoby transfer is very effective in responding to a two-notrump opening. As a starter, it gives you a chance to play three of a major with a bust hand opposite a two-notrump opening. In standard bidding, any response to a two-notrump opening bid is a force.

The Jacoby transfer makes it possible for North and South to play at three hearts which makes easily, since South loses two clubs and two hearts.

In standard American, North would have to pass at two notrump (down two) or bid three and four hearts. Four hearts would go one down, but it just might happen that South would refuse to stop there.

Now change South's spades and hearts so that he holds ace-small of spades and ace-king and two small hearts. Standard American would get to game. So does the Jacoby transfer.

South looks at his hand and sees that he wants to be in the heart game as long as North holds five hearts. He wants to be in a heart slam if North has any real values. Therefore, instead of merely bidding three hearts, he jumps to four and wraps it up.

ASK THE GOODBYES

A Florida reader wants to know the correct opening bid with:
 ♠ 10 x x ♥ K ♦ K ♣ A K J 10 x x x x

There is no good way to handle these very freakish hands. Our practice is to open one club, but we would not object to opening with five clubs. We definitely would not open three or four clubs.

Valley Church News

Local churches honor students

Sunday, Jan. 18, has been designated as Seminary Sunday by local Catholic Churches. A special collection will be taken at St. Raymond's in Dublin, St. Augustine's, Pleasanton, and St. Michael's and St. Charles in Livermore, to help support the boys who are preparing for the priesthood.

"Every student," says Father Jerry Kennedy, director of Vocations for the diocese, "receives a partial scholarship during his preparation. No young man is ever denied the opportunity to answer God's call because of inability to afford tuition."

Fred Riccio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Riccio of Pleasanton is studying at St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park as a Diocesan priest and is currently serving as an assistant to Msgr. Bernard Moran of St. Raymond's in Dublin. Fred is in third year of Theology and will become a Deacon on May 1. Frank Santos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Santos, Sr., of St. Raymond's parish, is a first year seminarian studying in Houston, Texas, to become a Holy Ghost Missionary father.

According to Father Kennedy, the seminarians are much different today than they were ten years ago. And the seminary itself has changed. Not in structure, but in style.

"Priests are no longer trained in a vacuum," explains Father Jerry. "They discern the realities of their vocation, not only from books, but an extensive field work program in their potential ministry. They learn to practice what they preach."

"The seminary program today," underscores Father Kennedy, "reflects ten years of serious renewal. Change is sometimes painful, but through the leadership of our bishop and the work of the Sulpician fathers, we can be justifiably proud of our seminary programs of today."

Through the pastoral program initiated for the diocese several years ago, the young men keep in touch with the work they are called to serve by an innovative field work program.

Some of the seminarians are assigned to parishes. They may work with young people on liturgies, visit the sick parishioners, assist senior citizen programs, teach religious education classes, help with school projects. Others will utilize their talents in specialized ministries — on college campuses, in hospitals and with youth.

In their final year before ordination to the priesthood, the young men are assigned as deacons to parishes where they can realistically understand their vocation by communicating Christ's message of love and service in a very positive way.

Just as the students do not become priests in a vacuum, the people of God cannot live in a vacuum either. They should realize these young men need support in many ways.

"We should daily thank God," Father Kennedy emphasizes, "that we have outstanding men seriously pursuing a vocation to the priesthood. Their presence helps all of us."

Seminarian visits here

Frank Santos, a seminarian studying for the Catholic priesthood with the Missionary Order of the Fathers of the Holy Ghost in Houston, Texas visited his family in Dublin during the holidays. While he was here he contacted the officers of Ct. St. Raymond No 2057 of the Catholic Daughters of America who are helping to financially support his vocational studies. Shown with Frank are Mary Ladner, First Vice-Regent, and Hazel Lynch, Regent of the local court.

Brown Church

SUNOL — Church school and Sunday worship services at the Little Brown Church of Sunol will be at 11 a.m. at which time the Pastor will give his annual report.

A pot-luck dinner will be served after the morning worship followed by a business meeting. All are welcome.

Adventists

LIVERMORE — Where did we go wrong? God only knows, as the saying goes, and this week Seventh-day Adventists at the Livermore church are studying His account of the whole fiasco as found in the Bible.

For the next three months, Adventists in the Saturday-morning Sabbath school will study the love of God, reports Rudy Johnson, Sabbath school superintendent. This week the lesson topic is "The Roots of Wrong."

Adventists believe in a literal interpretation of the creation of the world, as found in the first chapters of Genesis, as well as in a real person called Satan, who was a fallen angel. Johnson says the study will include the perfect condition of the world and of heaven as God created them, the creation of man, the rebellion of Lucifer (Satan), and the temptation and fall of mankind.

Johnson says that the Bible gives a clue as to what God looks like. "The Bible says that God counseled with Himself — that is, the Father, Son and Holy Spirit — decided, 'Let us make man in Our image, after Our likeness,' he says. So men and women must be at least a poor representation of God Himself."

Sabbath school classes are conducted for all age groups from kindergarten through adult, each focusing on the lesson in a manner the participants can understand. Sabbath school precedes the main church service and begins at 9:30 a.m. this Saturday.

Historical tour planned

WALNUT CREEK — St. Michael the Archangel Orthodox Mission, the only place in Northern California where the traditional Orthodox services are celebrated entirely in English, celebrates their divine liturgy every Sunday at 10:30 a.m. in their temporary meeting place in the chapel of United Methodist Church, 1543 Sunnyside Ave., Walnut Creek.

The Church school is looking forward to their trip to the Holy Trinity Orthodox Cathedral in San Francisco in conjunction with their studies on the interiors of the traditional Orthodox churches. Holy Trinity contains many significant historical art objects that show the richness of our nation's growth here in California, and was the object of a recent tour by the Californian Historical Society.

Visitors are welcome for this tour which will be led by St. Michael's pastor, Fr. Michael, 376-1965 Call Fr. Michael for more information or Mrs. Kitty Vitko, 447-6086.

Presbyterian

PLEASANTON — "And He Shall Reign Forever and Ever" will be the topic of the Rev. Robert Vogt of the United Presbyterian Community Church at Sunday services, Jan. 18. Text for the sermon is the Book of Revelations 20.

John Knox

DUBLIN — "Hymns Hot and Carols Cool" is this Sunday's sermon theme, the third in a series of January meditations on Christian worship and the marks of true worship being celebrated at the 9:38 a.m. service at the John Knox United Presbyterian Church in Dublin. Rev. Mr. Jim Griffes will be speaking to significance of music, hymns and anthems, in Christian worship using the "Psalms" as his basis.

The 9:30 a.m. worship is a family service. Children and youth are invited to worship with their parents and with one another during the early part of the service before they are dismissed to classes in the Christian Education building at 10 a.m. A "Listen My Children" message for five through eleven year olds is included in worship at this time. Junior High and Sr. High classes also meet at 10 a.m. in the youth rooms.

An adult fellowship and Christian enrichment period takes place following the service, from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m.

The annual congregational meeting will also take place this Sunday beginning with a Potluck Dessert and a program of recognition at 6:30 p.m. The annual reports for 1975 including audits of the financial records and approval by the congregation of the general fund and building fund budgets will take place at this most important meeting for the new year, 1976.

DEPRESSION ART "FOUND"

Public Offered 1937 U.S. Gov't Art Prints

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) — A series of rare coincidences has led to the historic discovery of several thousand sets of full color antique art prints that were "lost since 1937." They are now being offered to the American public.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries — the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Gainsborough, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc., and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

ABANDONED IN 1937 For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

The lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agree that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction is incredibly accurate. Over $100,000.00 had been spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates. These authentic original 1937 prints are literally collectors' items and have been appraised by a member of the Antique Appraisal Assoc. of America, Inc. at $7.00 each print. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC

Now, after 38 years these full color 11"x14" (ave. size) prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 15 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Art Surplus, Dept. A9, 4816 Mac Arthur Blvd. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20007. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Tenant found for empty Safeway

The old Safeway building on First Street, vacant since the fall, soon will have a tenant according to City Manager Bill Parness. Although Parness was reluctant to reveal the name of the lessee pending final contract agreement, he did say the tenant is a "large and reputable" hardware supply company with six to eight other store locations in Santa Clara County. The First Street structure will be used for sales and display, explained Parness, with a storage yard in a separate location. In other good news delivered to the city council Monday night, the city manager said Southern Pacific Development Company (owners of the Livermore Arcade on First Street where Safeway and Long's Drugs are located) plans to begin soon its second stage of commercial development in downtown Livermore on land from P to L streets which will be opened up when the railroad relocation project is completed. The company will contact the city with further information next month, said Parness.

Old Barn to be coffee house

LIVERMORE — The old Barn on South Livermore Avenue will become a coffee house Saturday night (Jan. 31) as the zaniest vaudeville show in history entertains.

City council candidates and Chamber of Commerce members will add to the madness as they emcee, lead a German band and act as singing it Ed Brush, a Granada High English teacher whose father was a magician, will perform a levitation feat using an old family formula.

ers include Leon Sieff, who plays his electric violin with a pipe, has been featured all over the world as an entertainer and is said to have been a favorite with the late Aristotle Onassis and with England's Queen Elizabeth.

Sieff was trained in classical music and plays mandolin, guitar, viola and organ in his act — interspersing bird calls.

He lives in Concord, has trained many members of the Oakland Symphony, and plans to teach at the Victorian Music Studio in Livermore this spring.

Another headliner is Georgette Twain, "Queen of the Banjo," who studied with Eddie Peabody and played with him on many shows. Her act includes antique banjos and a banjo that lights up when she plays and dances. She has performed in the Orient and in England and is a professional Bay Area nightclub entertainer.

Other zany performers include Florence Chato, who plays a violin while roller skating; Carolyn Wilson, a uni-cyclist; the Barbary Coast Banjo Band; Dion and Judy, singers; Bianca O'Brien, formerly with the San Francisco Opera; and Mike Davis, puppeteer.

Tickets are $3 for adults, $2 for students, available from Granada High Music Department students, Odyssey Records in downtown Livermore, or the Livermore Chamber of Commerce on Catalina Drive.

The show will benefit the Granada High choir, which is hoping to take an Eastertime trip to Mexico to compete in a music festival and to perform in several cities as well as taking in the sights.
